

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Media Contact:
Karin Helmey
khelmey@labreche.com
612.767.7620

BIOENERGY, INC. APPOINTS DANIELLE JOHNSON TO BOARD OF DIRECTORS

MINNEAPOLIS (Aug. 11, 2010) – Bioenergy, Inc., an integrated life science company specializing in the development and commercialization of D-Ribose for health and wellness, recently appointed Danielle Johnson to its board of directors.

"Danielle's extensive hospital experience overseeing the treatment of cardiovascular and critical care patients will be a valuable asset to our board," said John Broadbent, chairman of Bioenergy's board of directors. "We are confident she will contribute many meaningful insights to the company's clinical development strategy and programs."

In her current role at the Cardiovascular Institute at Florida Hospital, Johnson oversees strategic planning, financial management and daily operations of the hospital's cardiovascular service line. Additionally, she has held positions in critical care, organ donation services and quality management.

A licensed registered nurse with a bachelor's degree in business management, Johnson is a member of organizations including the American Heart Association and Society of Chest Pain Centers, among others, and her original research has been published in numerous trade journals.

About Bioenergy, Inc.

Bioenergy, Inc. is a privately held, Minneapolis-based life sciences company whose core technology lies in the development and commercialization of products based on the physiological benefits of D-Ribose in health and wellness. For more information, visit www.bioenergy.com.

###